The Bonds will constitute General Obligations of the County. Series 1984C (Wastewater Treatment and Sewers) Bonds will be payable as to both principal and interest from the collection of special assessments which have been levied on benefited property; but if not so paid, then said principal and interest will be payable from ad valorem taxes which may be levied without limitation as to rate or amount upon all of the taxable, tangible property within the territorial limits of the County. Proposals will be received on the Bonds bearing such rate or rates of interest, not exceeding eight (8) different interest rates, as may be specified by the bidder. The repetition of a rate will not constitute one of said maximum number of rates. The same rate shall apply to all Bonds of the same maturity. Each interest rate specified shall be in an even multiple of one-eighth ( $\frac{1}{8}$ th) or one-twentieth ( $\frac{1}{20}$ th) of one percent

(1%). The difference between the highest and lowest interest rates specified in any bid shall not exceed two percent (2%). No interest rate shall exceed the maximum interest rate allowed by Kansas law, said rate being two percent (2%) above the "Bond Buyer's 20 Bond Index" published in the Weekly Bond Buyer on Monday, September 23, 1984, and no bid of less than par and accrued interest will be considered. Bids for less than the entire issue of Bonds will not be considered.

Bids shall be submitted on the OFFICIAL BID FORM furnished by the City, and shall be addressed to the City at P. O. Box 255, Edgerton, Kansas 66021, and shall be plainly marked BOND BID. All bids must state the total interest cost of the bid, the premium, if any, the net interest cost of the bid, and the average annual interest rate, all certified by the bidder to be correct, and the City will be entitled to rely on the certificate of correctness of the bidder. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check equal to two percent (2%) of the total amount of the bid, and shall be payable to City Clerk, Edgerton, Kansas. In the event a bidder whose bid is accepted shall fail to carry out his Contract of Purchase, said deposit shall be retained by the City as liquidated damages. The checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned promptly.

The Bonds, duly printed, executed and registered, will be furnished and paid for by the City, and the Bonds will be sold subject to the unqualified approving opinion of NICHOLS AND WOLFE CHARTERED, Bond Counsel of Topeka, Kansas, whose opinion will be paid for by the City.

The number, denomination of Bonds and names of the initial registered owners shall be submitted in writing by the successful bidder to the Bond Registrar not later than October 24, 1984.

The purchaser will be furnished with a complete Transcript of Proceedings evidencing authorization and issuance of the Bonds, and the usual closing proofs, which will include a Certificate that there is no litigation pending or threatened at the time of delivery of the Bonds affecting their validity. Payment for the Bonds shall be made in immediately available funds. Delivery of the Bonds will be made to the successful bidder on or before November 1, 1984 at any bank in the STATE OF KANSAS or KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, at the expense of the City. Delivery elsewhere will be made at the expense of the purchaser.

The Bonds will constitute General Obligations of the City, payable as to both principal and interest from the collection of special assessments which have been levied on benefited property; but if not so paid, then said principal and interest will be payable from ad valorem taxes which may be levied without limitation as to rate or amount upon all of the taxable, tangible property within the territorial limits of the City. The Series 1984-A (STREETS) Bonds are being issued for the purpose of certain street improvements.

The sealed bids for the Bonds shall be opened publicly and only at the time and place specified in this Notice. The City reserves the right to reject any and/or all of the bids, and to waive any irregularities. Unless all bids are rejected, the Bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose proposal results in the lowest net interest cost to the City, and the net interest cost will be determined by deducting any amount of any premium paid from the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the Bonds from their date until their respective maturities.

Assessed valuation figures of the City of Edgerton, Kansas, for the year 1984, are as follows:

Equalized assessed valuation of taxable, tangible property .....	$1,350,247
Assessed tangible valuation of motor vehicles .....	$ 619,256
Equalized tangible valuation for computation of bonded indebtedness limitations .....	$1,969,503

CUSIP identification numbers will be printed on the Bonds. All expenses incurred in connection with the printing of CUSIP numbers on the Bonds and the expenses of the CUSIP Service Bureau for the assignment of said numbers shall be paid for by the City.

The total general obligation bonded indebtedness of the City of Edgerton, Kansas, at the date hereof, including this proposed issue of Bonds in the amount of $129,030.28, is in the amount of $473,030.28. The City of Edgerton, Kansas has Temporary Notes outstanding in the total amount of $172,000 which will be redeemed and paid from the proceeds of this proposed issue of Bonds and from other funds available to the City.

Additional copies of this Notice of Bond Sale or further information may be obtained from George K. Baum & Co., 1004 Baltimore Ave., Kansas City, MO 64105.

Dated September 27, 1984.

ATTORNEY GENERAL

OPINION NO. 84-91

Kansas Constitution—Legislature—Appropriations.

Kansas Constitution—Executive—Executive Power of Governor. Lynn R. Muchmore, Director of the Budget, Department of Administration, Topeka, September 6, 1984.

The Legislature may refuse to appropriate moneys to provide funds for a particular lease of office space already entered into by a state agency and may direct that no appropriated moneys shall be used for such purpose. However, the Legislature may not prescribe that an agency may not enter into any lease for office space without the prior approval of the State Finance Council or some other legislatively-dominated committee. Such a limitation on prospective action by a state agency violates the doctrine of separation of powers and is unconstitutional. Attorney General Opinion No. 81-83 is reaffirmed. 75-3708, 75-3711, K.S.A. 1983 Supp. 75-3711c, 75-3725a, L. 1984, ch. 23, § 5; L. 1984, ch. 244, §§ 1, 2, 23, L. 1981, ch. 32, § 69. RJB

OPINION NO. 84-92

Automobiles and Other Vehicles—Act Regulating Traffic; Equipment of Vehicles—One-Way Glass or Glazing of Windows Prohibited. David H. Heilman, Council Grove City Attorney, Council Grove, September 6, 1984.

The provisions of K.S.A. 8-1749a (amended by Laws 1984, chapter 39, section 20, effective January 1, 1985) which make it a crime to equip a motor vehicle with any material which "prohibits . . . the ability to see into the vehicle from the outside," are clear and unambiguous. However, that portion of K.S.A. 8-1749a which makes it a crime to equip a motor vehicle with any material which "substantially impairs the ability to see into the vehicle from the outside," is vague and indefinite. Consequently, these latter provisions of the statute violate the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution. A court probably would excise these provisions from the statute and uphold the remaining provisions thereof. Cited herein: K.S.A. 8-1749a (amended by Laws 1984, chapter 39, section 20, effective January 1, 1985); U.S. Const., 14th Amend. RJB

OPINION NO. 84-93

Taxation—Property Exempt from Taxation—Personal Property Moving in Interstate Commerce (Freeport Exemption). Senator Paul Burke, Ninth District, Leawood, Representative Jim D. Braden, Sixty-Fourth District, Clay Center, September 7, 1984.

The classification of natural gas in storage prescribed by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for regulatory purposes does not address nor resolve the issue of whether stored natural gas may be subjected to a nondiscriminatory state property tax at the location where such gas has come to rest. Correspondingly, the FERC classification of natural gas stored in underground storage areas as "current gas" is not determinative of whether such stored natural gas is subject to property taxation in the state of Kansas. Such natural gas may or may not be subject to such taxation based upon the occasion and purpose of its storage. If such storage is for the benefit, business purposes and convenience of its owners, and not due to transportation, safety or natural-cause reasons, the Commerce Clause of Article I, § 8 of the U.S. Constitution does not prohibit its taxation in the state of Kansas. Cited herein: K.S.A. 1983 Supp. 79-201f, as amended by L. 1984, ch. 350, § 1; U.S. Const., Art. I, § 8, cl. 3. RJB

KANSAS FACTS*KANSAS: HISTORY IS COLORFUL AND UNIQUE

"Upon us—a new people—emigrants, and soldiers of fortune all, was precipitated the most momentous question which has ever yet agitated the American people."

—The Daily Conservative, Leavenworth, January 30, 1861, on the admission of Kansas to the Union.

Kansas entered the Union January 29, 1861, marking the culmination of the periods of exploration, territorial disputes, and the bloody days which had erupted over slavery. Ahead were the days of growth and development which contributed significantly to the strength and prosperity of the nation.

The region that is now Kansas had been inhabited by Indians for thousands of years before the first white man appeared. In 1540 the Spanish conquistador, Francisco Vasquez de Coronado, marched north from Mexico in search of the Seven Golden Cities of Cibola. In New Mexico he was told of the Land of Quivira, and he turned east and north in search of this fabled place of wealth. By the summer of 1541, he had reached the Arkansas River in Kansas, crossing it near present Dodge City. Coronado found no gold in Quivira, but he called the country, which is now part of Kansas, "the best that I have ever seen for producing all the products of Spain." This occurred 80 years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock.

Coronado returned to New Mexico, but the following year a priest who had accompanied him was back in Kansas. Father Juan de Padilla hoped to bring Christianity to the Indians. He was killed, however, by those he tried to help. The exact place of his death was unknown, but it is presumed to have been in present central Kansas. Father Padilla is said to have been the first Christian martyr in the United States.

During the years between 1682 and 1739, France sent several explorers to the Kansas area. Claude Charles du Tisne crossed southeastern Kansas in 1719, and Bourgmont arrived in 1724. The Mallet brothers, Paul and Pierre, crossed Kansas in 1739, as they sought to establish trade between the French and Spanish traders from Santa Fe.

For a time Spain, France and England all had claims on the Kansas area. The English did nothing to further their claim. French claims were ceded to Spain in 1762, but in 1800 title was returned to France from whom the United States purchased the entire Louisiana territory in 1803. This transaction ended the trading era for Kansas and brought forth the exploration of a new American settlement.

Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, while exploring the Louisiana Purchase, made camp at several points on the Kansas side of the Missouri River in late June and early July 1804. Two years later, Lt. Zebulon Pike of the United States Army crossed the Kansas area on an exploring expedition during which he met with the Indians and treated with them as the representative of the new "White Father." He continued westward on this journey to discover the mountain which is now called Pike's Peak.

With the continued exploration of Kansas, trails were established by traders and immigrants. William Becknell, a Missouri trader, opened the Santa Fe Trail to trade with the Spanish in what is now New Mexico. Early in the 1820's wagon trains were being sent over this route from the Missouri River to Santa Fe. By 1825 the trail had become so important that Congress authorized a survey of the route. This survey, completed in 1826, provided for the Union a 775-mile route with two-thirds of it in Kansas.

The Oregon Trail to the northwest was used during the middle decades of the 1800's. The route crossed the northeastern section of the state and impressed many of those who traveled the trail. Some stopped and made their homes in Kansas while others returned later to settle on the rich farmlands.

The Territorial Period

In May of 1854 Kansas was organized as a territory, with boundaries that included most of the eastern half of present-day Colorado. Conflict over the slavery question led to bloody battles between freestaters and proslavery forces. In May of 1856 Lawrence was sacked by border ruffians led by Sheriff Jones. Many active free-staters lived there, and Lawrence became a mecca for escaped slaves. It was after this sacking that John Brown came into prominence. Brown, with his sons and a few other men, retaliated with a massacre. They dragged five proslavery neighbors out of their homes and killed them. This led to the battle of Black Jack near Baldwin when Missourians came to avenge the massacre. In a later raid on Osawatimie in August, John Brown and 40 defenders were beaten back by about 400 Missourians, and all but four homes were burned.

Battle for Statehood

From 1855 until 1861 the battle for statehood was as intense as any fought in the state. The first attempt occurred in 1855 when a free-state constitution was framed in Topeka. It did not receive serious consideration in Congress. In 1857 a second constitution which provided that Kansas be admitted as a slave state was written at Lecompton. The constitution was adopted in an election in which free-state men refused to vote and later was rejected at a second election in which the proslavery men took no part. This constitution was sent to Washington, but while it was being debated by the Congress, a third constitutional convention convened. The meeting was at Leavenworth, and the constitution drafted there was adopted by the people in 1858, but this too failed final acceptance.

The fourth and last convention assembled at Wyandotte (now part of Kansas City) in July 1859. This time free-state advocates were solidly in control, and the document they drafted barred slavery and fixed the present boundaries of the state. It was accepted by vote of the people in October, and in December a provisional state government was elected. In April 1860 the U.S. House of Representatives voted to admit Kansas, but the Senate, under proslavery domination, refused. Statehood for Kansas thus became a national issue, and the Republican platform of 1860 included a plank for immediate admittance. The victory of Abraham Lincoln in November was followed by secession of Southern states. The withdrawal of their senators and representatives gave control of Congress to the Republicans even before the change of administrations. In January 1861 the Kansas bill was passed by both houses of Congress and was signed by President James Buchanan on January 29. Kansas thus became the 34th state of what at the time was a rapidly disintegrating union.

Kansans had known civil war since the territory was organized in 1854. Now large-scale rebellion faced the entire nation. In answer to President Lincoln's first call for troops in April 1861, Kansas supplied 650 men. Before the war ended in 1865, the state had furnished more than 20,000 men, a remarkable record in view of the fact that the population included less than 30,000 men of military age. Kansas also suffered the highest mortality rate of any of the Union states. Of the black troops in the Union army, 2,080 were credited to Kansas, though the 1860 census listed fewer than 300 of military age in the state; most of them actually came from Arkansas and Missouri.

Although Kansas soldiers saw action in many of the important engagements of the war, only one major battle was fought within the state. This was the Battle of Mine Creek, which took place October 25, 1864, in Linn county. Some 25,000 men were involved. The confederate army under Maj. Gen. Sterling Price was defeated, and the threat of a Southern invasion of Kansas was ended. Civil War action within the state consisted primarily of guerrilla skirmishes and raids. Of these the most notorious was William C. Quantrill's surprise attack on Lawrence, August 21, 1863, in which 150 residents were slaughtered, and the city was looted and burned with about a million and a half dollars' worth of property being destroyed.

Late 19th Century Development

After the Civil War a series of Indian outbreaks threatened the western frontier. The tribes were alarmed by the steady encroachment of white settlers. Although undermanned military outposts did their best to protect settlers and travelers, and federal commissioners held peace talks with the chiefs, no permanent peace was obtained. Indian attacks reached their height in Kansas in 1867, when nearly 130 settlers were killed. By the end of 1869 most of their troubles had shifted to other areas. However, western Kansas continued to have Indian problems until the last Indian raid in Decatur county in 1878.

Meanwhile, rapid settlement was being made. Towns were founded, schools established, businesses and small industries started, and railroads pushed westward across the state. By 1870 the Kansas (now Union) Pacific reached the Colorado line, and by the end of 1872, the Santa Fe had done the same. The era of the great cattle drives, which focused national attention on several Kansas towns, came in with the railroads. Abilene became a shipping center for Texas cattle in 1867 when Joseph McCoy persuaded Texas drivers to use the extended Chisholm Trail to bring their herds to the just-arrived Union Pacific, Eastern Division (later the Kansas Pacific). Newton, Ellsworth, Caldwell, Wichita, and Dodge City were other towns which became prominent as tracks were built south and west.

The introduction of Turkey Red wheat by Mennonites from Russia in 1874 was a milestone in Kansas agriculture. This hardy winter wheat was ideally suited to crop-growing conditions in the state and provided the early basis for the preeminence of Kansas as a producer of wheat.

Kansas women were given the right to vote in school elections in 1861, far earlier than in most states. When this suffrage was extended to municipal and bond elections in 1887, the town of Argonia immediately elected Mrs. Susanna Madora Salter its mayor. She was the first woman so honored in the United States.

A Prohibition amendment to the Kansas constitution was adopted in 1880. It remained in effect until 1948 when a system of licensed liquor sales was established. At the turn of the century Mrs. Carry Nation became a national figure, symbolizing the strong temperance sentiment among church and other groups as she traveled about smashing illegal saloons with her famous hatchets.

Kansas in the 20th Century

Significant changes occurred in agriculture, industry, transportation and communication in the years after 1900. Mechanization became almost universal in farming; heavy industry began replacing individual shops and mills; transportation entered a new era which was to be characterized by diesel-powered trains, commercial air travel and multilane highways; and communication was revolutionized by radio and television which augmented the state's large publishing industry.

World War I brought an unprecedented boom in agriculture because of the demand for food from the warring nations of Europe. Thousands of previously uncultivated acres were planted in wheat, and this land, allowed to lie fallow during the recession of the 1920's became part of the "dust bowl" of the 1930's. In the 1940's conditions improved. New industries came to Kansas and by the early 1950's industry for the first time surpassed agriculture as the state's largest source of income. Kansas became steadily more urbanized as industry concentrated more and more in the population centers around Kansas City, Wichita, Topeka and other major Kansas communities.

A Link With the Past

To provide a link between the past and the present, the Kansas State Historical Society was organized in 1875. Operating as a quasi-governmental agency, the Historical Society administers 16 state-owned historic sites; maintains census records, old newspapers, maps, manuscripts, photographs and other materials of historic significance; runs a free museum featuring displays of numerous items relating to Kansas history; directs historic preservation for the state; publishes various journals and bulletins; and performs other duties of importance to preserving Kansas history.

The State Legislature recently appropriated $8 million for a new State Historical Museum to be built at a site on the west edge of Topeka. An old Pottawatomie Baptist Indian Mission on the site is being restored as part of the project. The museum is expected to be opened in early 1984.

KANSAS: GOVERNMENT IS STABLE AND PROGRESSIVE

"When anything is going to happen in this country, it happens first in Kansas."

—William Allen White

The state government of Kansas is based in Topeka, which has served as the state capital since 1861. Topeka was named the permanent capital only after a great deal of disagreement.

The first capital of Kansas was Fort Leavenworth, where territorial Governor Andrew Reeder had his headquarters. Other state capitals during the territorial period were Shawnee Mission, Pawnee, Leecompton, Minneola, Leavenworth and Lawrence. Some of those towns served as the capital several times—the capital changed whenever the territorial leaders decided to move it.

Kansas became a state January 29, 1861. In November of that year an election was held to decide on a capital and Topeka was selected over Lawrence and several other cities. In later years there were several attempts to move the capital to a more central location, but none came close to succeeding.

A progressive yet cautious spirit has always characterized the government of Kansas. The state has led the country in many important areas. Kansas government has changed to meet contemporary needs; yet it has retained those things which are "tried and true" and which continue to be necessary, effective and efficient.

Kansas is one of the few states in the nation that does not issue revenue bonds to finance general government activities. A "cash-basis law" requires that the State operate strictly on the money available. Bond issues are allowed for capital improvements, such as major roads and buildings.

Kansas leaders have never been afraid to try new ways of doing things. The state pioneered in the use of the direct primary election. It was Senator Joseph L. Bristow, the first United States Senator nominated in Kansas under that system, who introduced in Congress the resolution which put direct election of U.S. Senators into the U.S. Constitution. Prior to that time Senators were not elected by the people, but were chosen by the state Legislatures.

Kansas was the first state to create a Legislative Council to carry on legislative functions when the lawmaking body is not in session.

State government operations are located in several main buildings in Topeka:

The Capitol houses the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Division of the Budget, Department of Administration main offices, and the State Library. The Legislature meets in the Capitol and each Senator and Representative has an office there. Offices directly attached to the Legislature are also in the building.

The State Office Building, a 12-story structure completed in 1957, is located adjacent to the Capitol. The Office Building houses a number of state agencies. A 544-foot underground tunnel connects the building with the Capitol.

The Kansas Judicial Center, completed in 1978, is a modern building which houses the offices of the state courts and the Attorney General.

In the event of a national emergency or disaster, the Governor and other state officials would be evacuated to the State Defense Building about 2 miles south of the Capitol. The Defense Building, completed in 1977, is specially designed for use in any disaster. The building has an emergency operations center, its own generator, water supplies, and blast resistance and radiation shielding. Offices of the Kansas National Guard and the Emergency Preparedness Division are located there.

Several other buildings in Topeka have been leased or purchased by the State of Kansas as needed to house state agencies.

A number of state agencies also have local offices in communities throughout the state.

Kansas has the traditional three branches of government.

LEGISLATIVE

The State Senate and the House of Representatives make up the Legislative Branch. There are 40 Senators and 125 Representatives, all elected by the voters of Kansas. Each Senator represents approximately 58,982 people and each House member represents about 18,874 Kansans. Senators serve four-year terms and representatives serve for two years. The Legislature, which meets annually has the responsibility to create, amend or repeal state laws, appropriate money to be spent by state government, revoke or amend rules and regulations of state agencies and departments and approve or disapprove proposed amendments to the state and federal constitution.

A "Legislative Improvement Award" was presented to the Kansas Legislature in 1976. The award was given by Legis 50/The Center for Legislative Improvement " . . . to recognize the progress made in strengthening the legislative institution in order to provide better representation for the people of the state of Kansas."

Since the late 1960's, the Legislature has made great progress towards becoming a truly efficient and effective lawmaking body.

One major reform enacted in recent years is the lengthening and expanding of legislative sessions to allow more time and flexibility. Sessions are now limited to 90 days in even-numbered years and are unlimited in odd-numbered years, although generally they are held to 90 days.

Organizational meetings are now held every other years, following election of new legislators, before the session begins. Legislative officers are chosen at that time, and the meetings give freshman lawmakers a chance to get oriented.

Pre-filing of legislative bills between sessions, carry-over of bills from one session to the next in non-election years, and committee meetings between sessions are reforms which have helped to increase flexibility and provide better workload distribution.

Restructuring and improvement of support services have been vital elements in the legislative revamping. All legislators now have offices in the Capitol available throughout the year, and clerical services are provided during sessions. The legislative leaders have full-time administrative and clerical staffs. The Revisor of Statutes' Office, the Division of Legislative Administrative Services and other support offices have been strengthened.

Increased pay for legislators has made service in the lawmaking body more attractive to and possible for qualified citizens.

Strong ethics legislation has been adopted to regulate legislative lobbying by special interest groups.

EXECUTIVE

The Executive Branch includes the elected state officers provided for in the Kansas Constitution: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney General, and the ten members of the State Board of Education. Other elected state officers are the Commissioner of Insurance and State Treasurer. All serve four-year terms.

All offices in the Executive Branch are either directly or indirectly controlled by one of the elective officers, or are special agencies created by the Legislature to function independently within state government.

The Executive Branch offices exist to enforce or carry out the laws enacted by the Legislative Branch.

The structure of the executive branch has evolved over the years to its present form. Governors and legislatures have made changes as necessary through executive re-organization orders, constitutional amendments, and legislation.

Major state agencies are now headed by cabinet-level secretaries. In recent years, the efficiency of state government has been increased by combining similar agencies and abolishing antiquated, unnecessary ones.

In 1978, the Legislature adopted a "Sunset Law," which automatically abolishes specified state agencies at certain times. When an agency is due to be abolished, it may only be continued by receiving renewed statutory authority. The Legislature has the power to abolish any state agency (except constitutional offices) at any time.

Kansas was the third state in the country to establish a position of Ombudsman for Corrections. The Ombudsman serves as a liaison between the Department of Corrections and the inmates of the correctional institutions. He investigates complaints and works with corrections authorities to resolve problems.

A Kansas Energy Office was established to deal with modern energy problems.

A Public Disclosure Commission administers recent laws which mandate strict ethics in government.

The Legislative Division of Post Audit was created to audit each state agency periodically to review the legality, efficiency and appropriateness of the agency's operations. Post Audit is responsible to the Legislature and reports its findings and recommendations to that body.

The Crime Victims Reparations Board, created in 1978, provides compensation to certain victims of crime.

JUDICIAL

The state's Judicial Branch, which interprets state laws, is headed by the Supreme Court, with a Chief Justice and six justices. The Supreme Court is the highest court in Kansas. The Court of Appeals is a middle court between the Supreme court and the District courts. The Court of Appeals has a Chief Judge and six judges, and there are 31 district courts throughout Kansas presided over by 70 judges. Each judicial district also has associate district judges and/or district magistrate judges, as prescribed by law.

Supreme Court Justices and Court of Appeals

Judges are appointed by the Governor. Each time a vacancy exists the Supreme Court Nominating Commission submits names of several qualified nominees for the Governor to pick from. The justices stand for retention by public vote every six years, and the judges do the same every four years. The Justices and Judges must retire at age 70 or as soon thereafter as they finish serving their term.

District Judges, Associate District Judges, and District Magistrate Judges are elected locally. Most are selected on a non-partisan ballot, although some districts have opted for partisan elections.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Kansas has 105 counties and 625 incorporated cities.

Eighteen cities operate under the commission form of government; 11 have a mayor-council-manager system; 29 have a commission-manager system; and 557 operate under the mayor-council plan.

Local government in Kansas has some colorful history. In the early days of statehood, "county seat wars" took place. Being named the county seat could help to insure the future of a town, so there was a great deal of competition for that designation. During the county seat wars records were stolen, ballot boxes were tampered with, and shooting and bloodshed took place. In Stevens County six men were killed and the militia was sent in to restore order.
